The Scene: The Johnson's bedroom is large, bland, but contemporary in style, with floor-to-ceiling drapes flanking the windows. A door to the hall and the other bedrooms is upstage, center. There is a king-size bed, a pair of comfortable upholstered chairs, a vanity desk and chair, and a bench at the foot at the bed. Antique furniture bits stand beside modern furnishings and the walls display a few paintings of the girls when they were younger. The overall effect is one of comfort and clutter, rather than design. Late morning, sun streams through the windows.
